Why book this trip?

This adventurous trip takes us well off the tourist trail as we visit the Indonesian island of Sulawesi, formerly known as Celebes. Sulawesi lies in the heart of the Indonesian Archipelago and is steeped in tradition and mysticism, perhaps encapsulated best by the Toraja highlanders. The Toraja people have a rich and traditional heritage along with their elaborate funeral celebrations that can last for several days. As well as a deep and ancient culture, we discover thick rainforest, rare wildlife and drive along scenic mountain roads in this little-visited part of Indonesia.

Itinerary

Itineraries on some departure dates may differ, please select the itinerary that you wish to explore.

DAY 1 - Join trip in Makassar

Our trip starts this evening in the island's capital, Makassar. The city was established as a major trading port in the sixteenth century, trading exotic spices, rattan and sandalwood with its near neighbours the Javanese and Malays. In the 17th Century the Dutch reached the East Indies and Sulawesi was subsequently colonized, changing the character and face of this city. Modern Makassar showcases an interesting blend of this history with modernity, where glass-fronted skyscrapers jostle for position alongside Dutch colonial buildings, and the bustling harbour still remains a major stopping point for sea trade.

If there is time we hope to have a stroll along the main promenade, as at night the seaside boulevard comes alive with street vendors setting up their push cars along the pavement, offering a variety of local delicacies.

DAY 2 - Explore the bustling harbour city of Makassar

Nowadays Makassar is the main gateway to the eastern islands of Indonesia, and on our visit to Poatere harbour this morning we will find the traditional wooden sailing ships, known as Pinisi, lined up along the harbour being loaded by hand before making the journey east. We will continue on foot from the harbour to the nearby fish market, where the expert Bugis fisherman come to sell their catch of fresh fish. It is an interesting, if somewhat pungent market used just by locals bartering for their lunch, and we expect to be quite the tourist attraction ourselves here.

Leaving the fish market behind we move onto a reminder of Dutch colonial rule when we discover Fort Rotterdam. When the Dutch settled in Sulawesi they decided to build on top of an existing fort from the Gowa Kingdom, creating some very curious architecture.

DAY 3 - Drive to Sengkang, walk through Karantin Reserve and lunch with local family

We turn onto the Trans-Sulawesi highway this morning as we begin our adventure into Sulawesi's rugged interior. The journey winds its way from the low lands through lush stretches of tropical forests. On the way we stop off at Karantin Reserve and take a walk through the park where indigenous Celebes black-crested macaques can easily be spotted swinging from tree to tree. We break for lunch in a small village where we meet a local family and share a traditional lunch with them. We then continue onto Sengkang, arriving in the late afternoon.

DAY 4 - Discover Sengkang by Canoe and visit floating houses; Afternoon drive to Rantepao

This morning we take to the water aboard our canoe, being paddled along the narrow Walennea River and onto the important Tempe Lake. The lake is teeming with activity, both above and below the water, and here we can witness fisherman vying for their daily catch using a range of traditional nets, rods and bamboo fences. There are also some 20 different species of water birds that flock to this rich water source, so we hope to be able to spot some of the more colourful varieties this morning. Most of the fisherman call the lake home, residing in floating houses dotted around the outskirts of the lake. We will visit one of these floating houses where we will share tea and stories with one of the local families.

After waving goodbye to the family, we head further inland, into the dramatic mountainous interior of Sulawesi, and to Rantepao, home to the truly fascinating Toraja people.

DAY 5 - Visit the Tau Tau statues and hanging graves of Rantepao

Rantepao is the highlight for the few visitors that venture as far as Sulawesi. This region, otherwise known as 'Torajaland', is inhabited by the Toraja people, an indigenous population that for hundreds of years followed animist beliefs, although in more recent times they have been influenced by Christianity when Dutch missionaries began work in this region. The Toraja are perhaps best known for their celebration of death, and their elaborate funeral ceremonies that can last for several days. The funerals form important social events, and are often attended by hundreds of people from surrounding villages. Because of their size and scale, villagers often have to save for weeks, months sometimes even years to host these events, so the deceased are left, part mummified underneath houses of relatives. Other than their funerals rites, the Toraja are renowned for their unique and beautiful houses, known as Tongkonan. They are built on the principals of their spiritual beliefs, and sit on stilts with large sweeping roofs, with each end arching up towards the sky.

Today we plan to immerse ourselves in this mystical culture, first visiting Lemo where rows of Tau Tau statues sit carved into the rock face, along with a large selection of hanging graves. It is said that the Tau Tau statues are effigies that are created to honour the dead, guard the tombs and protect the living. After spending some time learning about these curious rituals, we continue onto Kete Kesu, one of the oldest Torajan villages and an excellent place to take in the Tongkonan houses, old rice barns, and the intricate colourful woodcarvings that are created in this area.

Please note the plan for the next two days will have an element of flexibility, and can be adjusted accordingly to ceremonies that may be happening in the area at the time. If we happen to arrive when a funeral ceremony is underway, we can respectfully request permission to attend so we can witness this mystifying celebration of life and death. The funerals are public affairs and more of a celebration of life than the more sombre funerals we are familiar with in the West. These rituals will often culminate in the sacrifice of a water buffalo or local livestock for a grand feast put on at the end of the celebration. These sacrifices are swift, but will be made in front of the crowds as part of the ritual.

DAY 6 - Full days walk in the remote Torajaland

Today we plan to continue our exploration of this fascinating region, with a gentle walk through the rolling hills of the Torajaland. The walk takes us past rice terraces and along unpaved roads to the remote and traditional villages that pepper this region. There are plenty of opportunities to stop for photos and to relax and take in the panoramic views of the surrounding landscape. We will break for lunch in a traditional Toraja house, where we share food with a local family. The walk will take approximately six hours including stops, and will be undertaken at a casual pace.

DAY 7 - Scenic drive to Pendolo passing mountains and waterfalls en route.

We have a full day of driving ahead of us today, with the road winding its way down from the Toraja highlands to the remote flat lands of Central Sulawesi. The route here takes us past swamps and sago palm plantations before heading back up into the hills again, reaching the sleepy village of Pendolo. The route is long, it is likely to take between 8-9 hours, but takes in some wonderful changing scenery with plenty of opportunities for stops along the way.

DAY 8 - Boat across Lake Poso to Tentena. Afternoon walk to nearby waterfalls.

This morning we switch tarmac for water as we board our charter boat to take us across Lake Tentena. After the long drive the previous day, today is a more relaxing affair, with time to visit a few villages dotted around the edges of the lake, and possible swimming opportunities in the calm waters. We take lunch on a small lake-side beach. In the afternoon we will visit the impressive Saluopa Waterfall, a 12 tier waterfall with calm pools interspersed within it, suitable enough for a welcome refreshing dip.

DAY 9 - Full days drive into the Besoa Valley; late afternoon walk in Lore Lindu National Park

Today you will drive into the Besoa Valley, an area that until very recently was impossible to visit due to the lack of infrastructure. The Besoa Valley plays host to the Lore Lindu National Park, a two thousand square kilometre protected area of remote forest. The park contains a staggering collection of over 400 megalithic stones, dating back the 14th Century, along with an array of flora and fauna that is unique to the area. After arriving at our homestay we will meet and share lunch with our host family, before setting out on foot for a short exploration of the park.

DAY 10 - Exploring the statues, forests and rice fields of the Besoa Valley on foot

Today we spend a full day exploring this remote park and we will get to see the impressive megalithic Stones, some of which date back to an estimated 3000 BC. We will also be keeping a keen eye out for some of the colourful wildlife that call the park home, including tarsiers, macaques, the rare Sulawesi civit, and the rather bizarre looking Babirusa, resembling a cross between a pig and hippopotamus. Along with the interesting collection of mammals, the park also contains 227 species of birds, of which 77 are endemic to Sulawesi.

DAY 12 - Morning visit to the limestone caves of Maros. Free afternoon in Makassar.

We head out to nearby Maros this morning, known for its beautiful rice fields and towering limestone karsts. Although geographically close to Makassar, peaceful Maros feels like a world away from the bustling city. Here we plan to explore the area on foot, with a short walk of about 1 ½ - 2 hours past rice terraces and in the shadow of rocky limestone outcrops. We will stop for tea at a local Bugis house before returning back to our start point by canoe.

This afternoon has been left free for you to make your final memories of Makassar where you can either explore the city on foot, or perhaps hop on a becak , the local name for a cycle-rickshaw.
