

Highlights of Bolivia

BOLIVIA - TRIP CODE BA

DISCOVERY

Why book this trip?

Bolivia contains some of the richest culture and most startling scenery in South America. The biodiverse Amboro National Park nestles within the Andean foothills, while Condor fly above. The high mountains of the Andes explode with colourful scenes, from the indigenous communities living in colonial Sucre and Potosi, to the ethereal, bright-white salt plains in Uyuni and the magical sunsets over Lake Titicaca.

- Uyuni - Walk on the dreamlike salt plains, where oddly-shaped cacti live on the blinding white desert
- Lake Titicaca - Hike on the Isla del Sol, surrounded by astounding views across the enormous lake
- La Paz - Take a cable car to explore one of the highest cities in the world

Itinerary

Itineraries on some departure dates may differ, please select the itinerary that you wish to explore.

DAY 1 - Join trip in Santa Cruz; explore the city on foot and by vehicle

Arrive in Santa Cruz. For most visitors to Bolivia, we expect mountain scenery, rural settings and indigenous culture. Our arrival into Santa Cruz turns these expectations on their head - set at the foothills of the Andes on the flat plains that extend into Brazil and Paraguay, this city is not at altitude, giving us some much needed acclimatisation time. It is also surprisingly diverse, being home to a Mennonite community, a large Japanese-Bolivian population and immigrants from the altiplano as well as Santa Cruz locals.

Our Leader plans to meet us in the hotel reception at 1pm this afternoon for the welcome meeting and to take us on a walking tour of the city, exploring some of the main monuments as well as the Museum of Sacred Art, the 400-year old San Lorenzo Cathedral and the Recoba handicraft market. If you would like to receive a complimentary airport transfer today, you'll need to arrive into Viru Viru International airport (airport code: VVI), which is approximately a 30 minute drive from our hotel.

Please note that if you wish to join the walking tour today, you must arrive at the hotel by 1pm. If you are booking your own flights, we recommend giving yourself at least 1 hour to clear the airport, plus the 30 minute drive to the hotel, so therefore the latest your flight can arrive is 11.30am. Should you miss the welcome meeting and the walking tour, your Leader will inform you of any essential information as soon as you catch up. If arriving at the hotel before 10am, breakfast will be included for you.

DAY 2 - 4WD journey to Samaipata; hike to a condor viewpoint in the Andean foothills

Heading west from Santa Cruz, our destination today is the sleepy village of Samaipata, located in the foothills of the Andes mountains at approximately 1600m altitude. The town is a great jumping off point for the biodiverse jungle paradise of the Amboro National Park, home to thousands of species of plants, and hundreds of mammals, reptiles, amphibians and birds, which we will be visiting tomorrow. Before arrival into Samaipata, we head in our 4WD vehicles to the local community of Bella Vista, which is where we will set off on our hike to a condor viewpoint. The terrain is almost alpine in its appearance - it's hard to believe that this is the same country that is home to the salt flats, the high mountains surrounding La Paz, or indeed the lush jungle in the neighbouring Amboro National Park. There are two different viewpoints of two or three hours round trip - the ascent will be steep, on rough paths, and the mountain vistas really open out in front of you, with forest covered hills stretched out for miles. The payoff is the magnificent views and the hope of spotting the majestic Condors from the top.

After our hike, we continue to Samaipata to our beautifully located accommodation where we can rest and relax.

DAY 3 - Visit the pre-Hispanic UNESCO site of El Fuerte; hike through giant fern forest in Amboro National Park

Close to Samaipata we find the mystical site of El Fuerte, a pre-Inca ruin that has been designated a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Occupying a hilltop about 10km away from the village, the site offers astounding views across the valley. There are no standing buildings, but the main draw to the site is the 100m-long stone slab, covered with a variety of carved figures such as snakes and pumas, as well as geometric shapes and practical niches for seating and wells or waterways. At the base of the rock, archaeologists are still excavating walls that we now know represent the administrative buildings for the site, which was occupied from as early as 300 AD by people belonging to the Mojocoyas culture, before passing hands through the centuries and being occupied by the Inca themselves in the 14th Century.

After visiting the ruins, we head to the La Yunga cloudforest in the spectacular and biodiverse Amboro National Park, to walk on the trails of the giant fern forest. We'll do an approximately two hour walk, on the muddy jungle trails. The giant ferns in this part are seriously impressive, with some reaching up to 13 metres tall. This is just one of the three different eco-systems found in the Amboro National Park, one of the reasons for its incredible abundance of wildlife. Our guide will help us to spot some of the over 800 species of bird found in the park, including toucans, white-bellied hummingbirds and the cock of the rock. Big mammals, including the spectacled bear, are also found in the park but they are unlikely to be seen.

DAY 4 - Return to Santa Cruz by 4WD; fly to Sucre and discover the city

Departing Samaipata this morning, we drive directly to the airport at Santa Cruz, and fly to Sucre. Here we get our first taste of real altitude, and at a reasonably low 2800m it is a good place to adjust. Arguably Bolivia's most beautiful, and certainly most charming, city, this gloriously whitewashed town is a UNESCO Heritage Site, and is perfect for wandering amid the tranquil streets and plazas. The colonial buildings with their wrought-iron balconies are reminiscent of a Spanish town, but there is a large indigenous population here in Sucre and we are sure to see ladies walking the streets, often carrying babies or food purchases slung across their backs, swaddled tight in a brightly woven scarf. We discover the main sights, including the Casa de la Libertad on the main square, where the Act of Independence was signed. We visit the peaceful Bolivar Park, which is a nod to the city's aristocratic aspirations in its French-style tree-lined paths. There are even replicas of the Arc de Triomphe and the Eiffel Tower, the latter designed by Gustav Eiffel himself especially for the city. The park is a good place to get food from the nearby street vendors, such as 'papas rellenas' (stuffed potatoes), a tasty snack of boiled egg encased in potato and fried. A final important stop on our tour is the museum of Indian Textiles, where weaving demonstrations are often given among the exhibitions of past and present work. Indigenous handicrafts have been historically viewed as 'second-class', and this museum aims to promote the importance of this work as a testament to Bolivia's ethnic and cultural heritage.

DAY 5 - Day at leisure; optional trip to see dinosaur footprints

Around the Sucre area there is a lot to explore, and we have several options today. For some, it may be the perfect opportunity to stay in the city and visit some of the colourful markets, such as the Mercado Central - a real local food experience, with freshly squeezed juices being sold next to hunks of freshly slaughtered goat or lamb and bags of all different types of grains and pulses piled up in a haphazard fashion. Alternatively, you could take a half-day trip to nearby Cal Orcko to see the incredibly 100m wall that contains hundreds of dinosaur footprints from the cretaceous period, an amazing record that paleontologists and geologists are studying to understand the prehistoric landscape in Bolivia. There is also the chance to do a four hour hike outside the city, with the aim of reaching the cave paintings of Incamachay and Pumamachay. The hike itself is stunning, taking you through the barely-inhabited mountains surrounding Sucre, culminating in the 2000 year-old rock art that was discovered in the early 1900s. Finally, you could take the bumpy drive up to the small indigenous village of La Candelaria, visiting the 200 year-old hacienda that is so key to this tiny community. The hacienda is full of rich history, with artefacts dating back to the 1700s. You'll also have the opportunity to visit some of the village homes, which is a really privileged experience.

DAY 6 - Travel to Potosi by public bus

Setting off from Sucre this morning, we take a three hour public bus journey to nearby Potosi, a UNESCO site that is integral to the history of Bolivia and indeed the entire Spanish empire. Although the conquistadors never found the fabled 'El Dorado', the legendary city of gold, they did manage to get their hands on Potosi, a town in the shadow of the nearby mountains that the Inca population were already exploiting for its silver. The most famous mountain of all, 'Cerro Rico' (Rich Hill), would effectively bankroll the Spanish empire, and during Potosi's most lucrative years it became the largest and wealthiest city of the Americas, which is something to be said for a small town at over 4000m altitude. However, once the silver had almost dried up, the city went into decline. Nowadays, the ore is still mined, along with tin and lead, in appalling conditions.

This afternoon is completely free to rest and acclimatise. It's a great town to stroll around, taking in the grand churches and ornate colonial architecture, but take it slowly because we'll be over 4000m of altitude.

ACCOMMODATION:
Hostal Colonial (or similar)

DAY 7 - Visit Potosi's famous mint; drive to Uyuni

This morning we will explore the town on foot. Our local Leader will talk to us about the importance of the mining heritage as we explore the historic Mint and the Casa de la Moneda, with the Cerro Rico looming over us at all times.

This afternoon we drive in a private bus to Uyuni, a journey of 3 hours that takes us through the Andean chain onto the altiplano - an ethereal high altitude plateau that seems endlessly barren, with llamas and vicunas sporadically popping up in the distance.

DAY 8 - Discover the salt-flats and the cacti-covered Incahuasi Island

Exploring Bolivia's immense, other-worldly salt-flats is an unforgettable and surreal experience. Heading into this natural wonder the sky seems to almost disappear into the land through the reflections of the blinding-white plains. Flamingos inhabit the shoreline, whilst the snow-capped peak of Volcan Tunupa (5400m) looms far in the distance. We explore this land today.

Before we arrive at the salt-flats we pass through the train graveyard on the deserted outskirts of Uyuni, a collection of early 20th century train carriages rusted by the salt and left for dead after a major transportation project failed. Crossing the salt flats we head for Incahuasi Island, where we find an expanse of huge cacti occupying an isolated island in the heart of the flats. The cacti have been here for millennia, and the tallest towers 9 metres above the floor of the plains, no mean feat given that it is estimated that they only grow one centimetre a year! We move on to Colchani, driving across the desert pans to visit a salt works, where villagers have sent piles of salt to be ground and iodised before being sold. We head back to Uyuni this evening.

DAY 9 - Fly to La Paz; city tour and cable car

Leaving Uyuni we fly this morning to the lofty heights of La Paz. Standing at 3636m above sea level, La Paz is cupped in the palm of two magnificent mountains and surrounded by the high altiplano. Its poetic nickname of 'the city that touches the sky' is well earned. We enjoy a tour of the city's many sites, including the fascinating witch market with its rows of bottled llama fetuses and other gruesome items, as well as handicrafts and weavings. The gold museum, San Francisco Church and Murillo Square are also highlights of the old colonial town, as well as the outdoor replica of the Tiahuanaco temple. We take the new cable car down to the southern part of the city before heading 10km out of the centre to the surreal landscape of the 'Valley of the Moon. We walk the narrow trails around the giant clay spires and deep canyons of this geological wonder, which rise out of the ground in bizarre formations.

DAY 10 - Free day; optional trip to Tiahuanaco archaeological site

Today is free to explore the city. You may wish to take half a day to visit the Tiahuanaco ruins, one of the most important pre-Inca civilisations and considered to be one of the most developed in its time. The Kalasaya Temple, the Gate of the Sun, the Akapana pyramid are amongst some of the buildings to explore and this can be followed by visiting the nearby pottery and stoneware museum. Alternatively, a really great thing to do in the city is to take a walking tour with a difference. Our supplier in Bolivia is partnered with a collective of local shoe-shiners, who can take you through more local neighbourhoods and markets of La Paz, including the popular 'Belen dining room' where rows of food stalls sell lunches very cheaply to the working population in the area. It provides a fascinating look at this mad city, outside of the usual tourist routes, and will get you closer to one of La Paz's most thriving working communities, which is also one of the most misunderstood. Our local Leader will be on hand to translate from Spanish if you choose this option.

You could also escape the city with a half-day hike in the atmospheric Valley of the Spirits. There is a three hour hike into Palca Canyon, starting with a roughly 5km downhill across farmland paths, descending into the gothic spires and rock formations of the canyon, before following the roughly 3km long rocky path through the canyon floor.

DAY 11 - Drive to Copacabana; boat to Isla del Sol

From La Paz we head towards the deep blue waters of Lake Titicaca. At 3810m it is the highest navigable lake in the world and its sacred waters have long been a site of religious ritual and devotion for the Aymara and Quechua populations that make the lake their home. Our journey takes us to the town of Copacabana, a place of mystic reverence since the times of the Tiahuanaco, and now a pilgrimage site for many Christians. We explore the Virgen Morena and its church before boarding our boat to the Island of the Sun, landing in Huacani port. Here we are treated to a typical 'aptapi' - a traditional indigenous lunch usually involving potatoes, corn, lima beans, trout or chicken, cooked up and served on a communal table. After lunch we jump back onto the boat where we land at the Pilkokaina Ruins and walk up to our eco-lodge (approx. 200m ascent and 1-1.5hrs of walking at high altitude), where we will be spending the night. You will be carrying an overnight bag with you on this walk and we will have the assistance of mules or donkeys. In order to not overload the animals, we will bring only what is necessary for one night and leave any extra luggage in Copacabana.

DAY 12 - Boat to the Island of the Moon and visit to ruins; drive back to La Paz and fly to Santa Cruz

The Isla del Sol is the largest of the islands that lie dotted around this spectacular lake, lying just off the Copacabana Peninsula. The island is covered with nearly 200 archaeological sites that attest to the importance placed on this site by the ancient Incas. This morning, we take a short hike in the morning to discover the vistas over the lake, before walking down to the port and taking a boat to the neighbouring Island of the Moon. Here, the ruins of Inak Uyu (Temple of the Moon) are a very well preserved nod back to the island's ancient history, and an excellent place to take a hike up for more stunning views over the islands. We continue by boat back to Copacabana, drive to La Paz Airport and catch our flight back to Santa Cruz. We say goodbye to our local Leader here, and we are picked up in Santa Cruz by a local guide, who will transfer us to our final hotel.

Climate and country information

Bolivia

Climate

Conditions vary from region to region and with altitude. Bear in mind that at high altitude temperatures can drop dramatically, and conditions can change suddenly. Inland Bolivia is generally hot and humid from October to March (summer); temperatures are milder from April to September (winter). In the highlands there is a rainy season from December to March and it is normally dry for the rest of year which is the best time for mountain travel.

Budgeting and packing

Optional activities

The following excursions and/or activities are usually available and may be arranged locally. Estimated costs are provided below for guidance only, are on a per person basis unless shown otherwise, and may depend on the number of participants. Prices quoted are correct as of the date these tour notes were originally issued but may change at any time due to currency fluctuations. Please note: These activities are booked and paid for direct with the supplier and do not form part of your Explore holiday contract.

A selection of optional activities are listed below to help you budget for your adventure. Whilst the basic tour price you pay before you travel includes a great selection of highlights, we have also built in free time to allow you the flexibility to choose from a carefully selected range of additional excursions and activities or take time to relax, the choice is yours. At certain destinations along the way there may be several options to choose from and it may not be possible to fit all the activities in; your Explore Leader will be able to advise you.

Day 5 - Sucre:

Full day tour to La Candelaria village, hacienda visit, including lunch; approximately $100USD (min 3 people)

Full day hike to the Incamachay and Pumamachay rock paintings, including lunch; $69USD (min 3 people)

Half day trip to the Cal Orcko museum and dinosaur footprints; $27USD (min 3 people)

Day 9 - La Paz:

Half day trip to the Tiahuanaco ruins; $54USD (min 3 people)

Half day hiking trip to the Valley of the Spirits and the Palca Canyon; $66USD (min 3 people)

Half day alternative city tour with local shoeshiners; $34USD (min 3 people)

Clothing

Temperatures at altitude can drop considerably, particularly at night, and you will certainly need warm clothing for the evenings, including thermal underwear, a well-insulated fleece/jacket and a thick sweater. Bring something warm to sleep in. Lightweight clothing is necessary for the low altitudes of Santa Cruz, and even the highlands enjoy dry sunny days that may necessitate lighter items. Lightweight raingear is essential at any time of the year, particularly in the Amboro National Park.

Footwear

Comfortable lightweight trail or walking boots, trainers and sandals.

Luggage

20kg

Luggage: On tour

One main piece of luggage, a good sized daysack which should be large enough to carry warm and waterproof clothing as weather can be quite changeable. The altiplano is dry on the whole, but rain could happen particularly in Santa Cruz, which is lower down.

Remember you are expected to carry your own luggage so don't overload yourself.

Equipment

A sunhat and sunglasses are advisable as is high factor sunscreen and lipsalve with sun protection, due to the thinness of the atmosphere. A torch is also useful in case of power cuts or emergencies. Don't forget your camera and a towel. You may wish to bring a walking pole for our hike to the eco lodge on the Isla del Sol, if you have one.

Tipping

Explore leader

Tipping isn't compulsory, and we work hard to ensure that our leaders all receive a fair wage. However, you might want to recognise a leader that's done a great job or really added to your trip by giving them a tip. We're often asked about the recommended amount. It's a tricky one, and down to personal preference, but we'd recommend between £15 to £20 per person per week as a guideline

Local crew

Although entirely voluntary, tipping is a recognized part of life in this region of the world. Some local staff will look to members of the group for personal recognition of particular services provided. In order to make things easier for you, your leader may organise a group's tips kitty for included activities and meals and if this is the case, they will account for it throughout the tour.

Accordingly, you should allow US$ 35, approx. 250 Boliviano for group tipping

For all non-included services and meals on your trip please tip independently at your discretion.

Bolivia

Food and drink

The costs for meals may vary depending upon location, type of restaurant and number of courses eaten and so the prices given are an average guide. Local restaurants located off the beaten track may be less expensive, whereas an upmarket restaurant located in the centre of a major city may charge more.

Lunch price	Dinner price	Beer price	Water price
£5	£8	£1.47	£0.6

Foreign Exchange

Local currency

Boliviano. (BOB)

Recommended Currency For Exchange

You can choose to either change your money in advance or on arrival at the airport. Here you will find both ATMs and Bureau de Change. The exchange rate with the BOB is approximately BOB 8.70 to the British Pound. We recommend you take some emergency cash in USD as the GBP exchange isn't very good. Notes should be in good condition otherwise they may not be accepted. Please check on line for up to date information

Where To Exchange

Your Tour Leader will advise you on arrival.

ATM Availability

ATMs can be found in the major towns and cities for cash withdrawals in Boliviano. Always have some cash back up as they are not always reliable.

Credit Card Acceptance

Insurance

It is a condition of booking with Explore that you have adequate valid travel insurance. It is your responsibility to arrange appropriate travel insurance and ensure you have read and understood the full terms and conditions of your travel insurance policy to ensure that you are covered for all activities you intend to undertake whilst on the tour, including all optional activities. Your Insurance Policy must fully cover you for medical expenses and emergency repatriation to your home country. Please ensure your policy includes medical emergency helicopter evacuation in the event of illness or injury and covers the entire duration of your holiday. If you are trekking at altitude please ensure that there is no upper altitude limit which may limit or exclude cover for your trip. The cost of many of our Polar Voyages will exceed the capped amount covered by standard insurance premiums and you will be required to pay an additional premium to cover the full value of your trip. Please ensure that you are covered for the full amount of your holiday cost, as insufficient cover could invalidate a claim under the policy. Medical and repatriation insurance cover is not mandatory for UK residents who are travelling on trips within the United Kingdom.

Booking a flight inclusive package with Explore

We have a good selection of flights not only from London but from many regional airports around the UK allowing us to compare fares between scheduled carriers as well as low cost and charter airlines. Our dedicated flights team will match the best flight options to your arrival and departure airport. On our website we display a UK flight inclusive package guide price which is generally based on a London departure. To avoid paying supplements or to secure your preferred flight option, we recommend booking as early as possible, especially for peak travel dates.

Bolivia

Vaccinations

A yellow fever certificate is necessary for passengers visiting the lowlands Bolivia (BA trip). We also recommend protection against typhoid, polio, infectious hepatitis and tetanus. Please consult your travel clinic for the latest advice on Malaria, Dengue and Zika Virus. Please take preventative measures to avoid mosquito bites - these include mosquito repellent as well as long trousers and long sleeve shirts to cover up when necessary. Please note many countries in Central America, South America and the Caribbean require a yellow fever vaccination certificates if travelling from infected areas. A detailed list of these countries can be found on the NaTHNaC website - <http://travelhealthpro.org.uk/countries>. Also on the NaTHNaC site there is a list of Countries (and specific areas within a country) which are at risk of infection and a vaccination is therefore recommended. Please check the latest requirements with your travel clinic or doctor prior to departure. The above is not an exhaustive list. Further information regarding vaccinations and travel health advice can be found by following the NHS and NaTHNaC links at Explore Travel Health and from your local healthcare provider. Visa and vaccination requirements are subject to change and should be confirmed by you before travelling.
