Itinerary

Itineraries on some departure dates may differ, please select the itinerary that you wish to explore.

DAY 1 - Fly to Chiang Mai and drive to Mahouts Village

This morning you will be collected from your hotel in Bangkok and transferred to the airport for the short flight north up to Chiang Mai, Thailand's sleepy garden city. Upon arrival you will be met by a representative and driven into rural north-west Thailand, a journey of four hours and home to Thailand's hilltribes. The destination village is home to the Karen tribe, the largest of Thailand's minority tribes and thought to originate from neighbouring Burma (Myanmar). Often confused with the so-called \ long-neck tribes\ (which are actually the Padung people), the Karen are principally subsistence farmers that are adept at cultivating rice and other staples in the lower mountains. They are also known to be skilled weavers, and have always shared a close affinity with elephants, serving as mahouts (elephant keepers) for generations.

On arrival in the village, you will meet the host family who will welcome you into the comfortable guesthouse before taking you on a short tour of the village, breaking the ice and serving as the first introduction into Karen culture.

Tonight you will dine with several of the villagers, sampling freshly prepared Karen food. Meals are usually a selection of in-season vegetables picked from the local area along with chicken or pork served in a spicy, hearty stew. And of course sticky rice, the Thai staple!

The village guesthouse is next to the host family's home, it is equipped with comfortable Karen-style mattresses (on the floor rather than raised on a base), duvets, mosquito nets and a private bathroom and shower.

DAY 2 - Trek into the forest in search of elephants and learn forest skills with the mahouts

After breakfast with the host family this morning you will set off on the walk to the forest camp, a walk of approximately one hour. Once here, you will be able to leave your overnight gear inside the tent before venturing further into the forest with the mahouts in search of the elephants. Please note you will be required to carry your own bag to and from the camp, so we recommend packing lightly with only the items you require.

During the trek the mahouts will teach you some basic skills in how to track elephants in the forests and how they forage for food from the undergrowth. Once with the elephants, we will spend the remainder of the day observing them in the natural habitat, learning about the natural behaviours of an elephant, the types of vegetation they eat and the benefit of allowing these elephants forage for themselves.

Dinner is served back at the base camp around a fire, and will likely be fresh river fish caught by the mahouts earlier that day, followed by a selection of vegetables foraged from the surroundings areas.

Mattresses are provided within the tents complete with bedding, pillows and solar power, allowing for a few hours of electricity for a reading light or to charge camera batteries. Please note this campsite is wild, and therefore there are no shower or bathroom facilities. Toilets are \ al fresco\.

DAY 3 - A further day watching elephants roam in their natural habitat. Afternoon walk back to the village

You will wake this morning to the sound of the forest, with the birds singing and the gibbons calling whilst breakfast is prepared for you by the mahouts. After a leisurely breakfast you will once again make your way deeper into the forest for the amazing and unique spectacle of watching these elephants roam in their natural environment. This programme has been put together by the Mahouts Elephant Foundation, a UK-based charity that is dedicated to improving the lives of Asian elephants. As well as setting up this incredible experience, they work towards changing attitudes within tourism, aiming to end cruel elephant shows and elephant riding packages by working towards moving elephants to a protected forest habitat. This model gives the elephant tourism industry and its mahouts a credible alternative, to be able to earn a living for their families and for the local economy to directly benefit, all while providing a safe and caring environment for these gentle giants.

After another morning spent with the elephants and learning of the good work being done here, you will say goodbye to these beautiful creatures and start the walk back to the village homestay. This evening at dinner there will be the chance to learn a little more of the Karen culture, and to try your hand at some of the traditional industries they practice such as basket weaving or textile work.
